1. Decisions to be taken by the General Assembly:

- a. to approve the 2024 audited accounts (page 8 et seq.)
- b. to approve the 2026 IPA budget (page 14 et seq.)

2. Management summary

The year 2024 closed with a small loss of CHF -654.96. Again we had to dissolve reserves of CHF 20'000.- to reach this result (from Copyright Contingency Fund). It comes from the costs of an amicus brief in an important copyright case in the USA that was supported by the IPA. Membership fees stayed almost the same.

The total income was a bit higher because of subletting a space in the IPA-Office in Geneva. Personnel costs and other expenses are rising slightly due to inflation and a general increase in prices that has accumulated over recent years. Travel and lobbying costs are volatile and depend on the various activities. In 2024, they were also higher overall than in 2023.

The budget for 2026 provides for a small surplus and higher expenditure on Freedom to Publish and Copyright.

3. 2024 Accounts

The annual financial statement shows a stable financial position. Liquidity is very good, mainly due to the very important payments of membership fees. The only notable item under liabilities is the reduction of CHF 20'000.- in the long-term provisions for the Copyright Contingency Fund, which led to an overall reduction in long-term provisions. All the figures are in Swiss Francs (CHF)

5. Forecast for the End of 2025

By the end of July, 84% of membership fees had been paid. Membership fees are expected to reach the budget target. On the other hand, by the end of July, after seven of twelve months, approximately 56% of the budget had been used. Provided that no extraordinary costs are incurred, we expect to achieve a result within budget by the end of the year.

6. IPA Membership Developments

In 2024, the GA Delegates voted to accept the following publishers' associations:

Provisional Membership category:

- Croatia: Association of Publishers and Booksellers of the Croatian Chamber of the Economy
- Dominican Republic: Asociacion de Industrias Editoriales de la Republica Dominicana
- Poland: Polish Chamber of Books.

Associate Membership category:

- Latin America: Asociacion de Editoriales Universitarias de America Latina y el Caribe (EULAC)

Transition from Provisional to Full Membership:

- Guatemala: Asociacion Gremial de Editores de Guatemala (AGEG)

There were no new suspensions in 2024.

7. Other income

IPA was able to raise around CHF 9'600 in sponsorship funds for the 2024 Prix Voltaire.

Fixed-term deposits in 2024 generated income of CHF 8'198, but as interest rates in Switzerland are again tending towards zero, this income will be significantly lower or even disappear altogether in 2025.

8. Budget 2026

The budget for 2026 provides for increased membership fees, including EPF, as proposed by the Executive Committee to the General Assembly and as reported to members by email and in open meetings on 22 and 27 May 2025.

The IPA's finances show a structural deficit, which has led to a cash outflow of around CHF 60'000 over the last four years.

The cumulative inflation rate in Switzerland from 2016 to 2024 is 7.56%. The IPA also has costs in euros, British pounds and US dollars, where the cumulative inflation rates from 2016 to 2024 are significantly higher (27.21% in Europe).

Due to the steady increase in costs in recent years, the IPA needs higher membership fees to cover costs and avoid further liquidity losses through the dissolution of long-term provisions, as has been the case in recent years. See below for the EC-approved 'Building the case for a membership fee increase' as circulated to members in May 2025.

Without an increase in membership fees in 2026, the budget would have foreseen another loss and very limited financial leeway.

On the other hand, the increased membership fees will provide more funds for the Freedom to Publish and Copyright Committees and a balanced result instead of a loss. See below for a spreadsheet showing the effect of the membership fee increase on all IPA members.

9. Final Remarks

As the new Treasurer, I received a very warm welcome and got off to a very good start. I would like to thank the Secretariat for its excellent support and patience.

It was very interesting for me to learn about the IPA's finances and, in particular, to find out that these finances are in good shape and that there is no cause for concern.

In my opinion, budget discipline and control are two of the most important aspects when it comes to finances. As far as I can tell, the Secretariat is doing an excellent job in this regard.

Annex 3: Building the case for a membership fee increase

Building the case for a membership fee increase

The Membership Fee Working Group recommends that the IPA increase membership fees by a total of 10% for all members over 5 years. That is, 2% non-compounding per annum for 5 years.

Context

IPA's membership fee structure has remained unchanged since 2015: governed by the same algorithm. Over those years, our actual income has remained largely static with only minor increases due to new members joining from small publishing markets.

The IPA, however, is a very different organization to that of 2015. In that time, we have seen a 75% increase in members; 2 new Committees, a proliferation of sub-committees and working groups within committees; a 50% enlargement in the size of the IPA monthly Newsletter and a 100% expansion in its reach, as well as regular blogs and media releases; copyright webinars and regional outreach events to complement regular committee meetings along with regular submissions to copyright reviews; closer collaboration with international and regional allies in the publishing and other creative sectors; coordination of global teams to attend WIPO SCCR governed by a WIPO Strategy, working with WIPO (until 2023) on reports on global publishing statistics; a much more intense focus on WIPO, UNESCO, and OECD; and a representation on the boards of EDItEUR, ISBN Agency, and WIPO for Creators.

All this new activity is being administered by a Secretariat team of 3.6 full time employees — a drop from the 4 full-time employees of 2015 — managed and bolstered by volunteers from the industry: the over 200 members of our Committees.

The IPA Strategic Review pointed to a contradiction in IPA's operations, where we constantly emphasize our 'two pillars' — copyright and freedom to publish — but only allocate the equivalent of 0.6 of an employee to one and 0.5 to the other. This, at a time when attacks on copyright are prolific, sophisticated and increasingly well-funded and where the freedom to publish is being threatened in more territories than ever. The inference from the Strategic Review is that the IPA should do more to protect and promote copyright and freedom to publish.

The IPA Treasurer has examined our current budget and has not found cost cutting opportunities of the order of magnitude required for the IPA to do more. Currently, 98% of our income is derived from membership fees. The IPA continues to search for other viable income streams but irrespective of this, an increase in the membership fee is crucial, in the short to medium term, if the IPA is to increase its investment in protecting and promoting copyright and freedom to publish. The Treasurer also points to a small but steady 'cash drain' due to ongoing deficits that could be addressed by a fee increase.

Proposal

The Membership Fee Working Group recommends a 10% increase in membership fees, allowing for approximately CHF100,000 in extra funding that could be channelled towards events, projects, research and other activities that would protect and promote copyright and freedom to publish.

To make that increase equitable, we recommend that it be applied to all members.

To soften the impact of that increase, we recommend that it be spread over 5 years: that is, 2% non-compounding per annum.

To show the effect of this proposed increase, the attachment shows five-year projections using the current membership fee.
